

FEWER STORKS IN ALSACE

System of Registration is Being Tried to Learn About Migratory Habits.

Every year the number of storks to be seen in Alsace becomes less. Of the four nests perched on the big chimneys on the roof of Strasbourg, only one has been occupied this year.

In many of the villages the great migrators have ceased for a long time to relieve the landscape, and it seems only a question of time when the stork in Alsace will be a memory. Various are the causes assigned for this desertion—the draining of the marshes, the multiplication of telephone and telegraph wires and the smoke from factory chimneys.

In Germany for the better study of storks there has been created a sort of service in connection with the Education Department which tends to set up an "etat civil" for each bird, or, in other words, to register them after the manner which obtains for citizens in France.

Each bird is captured where possible and a metallic disk affixed to its leg, and German officials, wherever the birds are believed to migrate, have instructions to send to the department any information they can gather concerning storks who are German subjects. (Possibly this labeling may have something to do with the scarcity.) By this system of registration the authorities have learned something of the migratory habits of the bird; for instance, one was found dead at the Cape of Good Hope whose place of origin was eastern Prussia.

A point of interest relative to the scarcity of the stork has been brought under the notice of the German authorities by a doctor at Port Elizabeth, who suggests that they have been poisoned through eating grasshoppers or locusts which have been killed by arsenic. A correspondent, however, of an Alsace-Lorraine journal hints that the cause is to be found nearer at home.

HOW DUTCH FARMERS LIVE

Cattle invariably are housed under the same roof as the family.

The typical Dutch farmhouse is square, one-story, with a pyramid-shaped roof. The space between the eaves of the roof and the ceiling of the dwelling part is generally used as a storeroom for winter food for the cattle. The living room door opens into the stable, for the cattle are invariably housed under the same roof as the family. The homes vary little in their furnishings. One always sees bright strips of carpet, a highly polished "center table," where the family Bible is displayed, and a glass dresser, with its shelves filled with rare old brass and Delft ware. The most curious thing about the houses is the sleeping quarters—unique and certainly unhealthy from the modern viewpoint, which requires plenty of fresh air in the bedrooms.

The cheesemaker's family sleeps in beds built in cupboard-like recesses in the wall and as far from the window as possible. There is a door similar to that of a cupboard, and this is kept closed during the day, in order that the bed may be hidden from view. The stuffy condition of this walled-in bedroom can be readily imagined. The linen is always snowy white, and the whole make-up presents an attractive appearance, even to the decorated strap suspended from the ceiling and used to assist the occupant of the couch to arise. The visitor is always welcome at the cheese farms, but the visit must be made early in the morning if the cheesemaking is to be seen.—Leslie's.

MUSIC OF THE ABORIGINES

Norwegian Explorers Secure Some New Phonographic Records in Northern Canada.

The explorers, Christian Leden and Harald Thaulow, have just returned to Christiania from an expedition to Northern Canada which was undertaken with the object of collecting phonographic records of the folk songs of the various Indian tribes and comparing them with those obtained in earlier expeditions to the Equinox, with the view of establishing how far their common origin.

The largest tribe visited was the Cree, which numbers over 20,000. Their chief, Montongik, was at first hostile, but after a few presents of tobacco and glass beads and after having been told that the explorers had been sent by the king of Norway to make his tribe famous, he became more amenable to the wishes of the explorers.

They brought back with them a most interesting collection of films and records of Indian life and music. Leden will go in the fall to Greenland for further investigation in the spring of 1913 and a long final exploration for three years. He will visit tribes that have never been in contact with the whites, he says.

How to Succeed.
If you want to succeed in this world you must make your own opportunities as you go on. The man who waits for some seventh wave to toss him on dry land will find that the seventh wave is a long time coming. You can commit no greater folly than to sit by the roadside until someone comes along and invites you to ride with him to wealth and influence.—John B. Gough.

A Mistake.
"You treat those boys like they were no many kittens," said the disgusted bachelor uncle to the fond young mother.

"No, she doesn't," snapped the spinster aunt. "It would be better for them if she did, for then they would get a good licking every day."

TENDERNESS TO THE AGED

Those in Their Helpless Years Should Be Treated With Kind and Gentle Regard.

Nothing is more beautiful or Christ-like in the character of the young woman than a kind and gentle regard for the old. They whose falling steps are slowly descending the sunless slope of age have but one consolation as the years speed by them, and that is the tenderness and consideration of those on whose lives the beauties of the morning are breaking. Age is a season of physical infirmity, of mental retrospection, of shattered dreams and earthly disappointments. No more for the old is there a glimmer in the rolling stars, no more freshness in the spring, no more a triumph in the years. The thousand melodies of the present sound far off to their aged ears and their charms are blurred in the haze of old affections. Treat them gently, for their travail and their sacrifice are yet the possessors not only of existence in the world in whose splendor they exult, but also for the prosperity and happiness we thoughtlessly enjoy. Never mind if she or he be old and feeble and of humble garb—they look to you in their helpless years to aid with gentle courtesy their tottering steps. God's blessing will reward you if you do.—Catholic Universal.

ADDING DAYS TO HIS LIFE

Paradoxical Problem is Solved Through Obvious Point in Circumnavigation.

A correspondent sends to the Herald a paradoxical problem which, he believes, originally appeared in Plessey's "Chymical, Natural and Physical Magic," published some 50 years ago. Two persons were born at the same place at the same moment of time. Fifty years after they both died, also at the same spot and at the same instant; yet one had lived 100 days more than the other.

The possible solution turns on a curious but very obvious point in circumnavigation. A person going round the world toward the east loses a day; going toward the west he gains one. Suppose, then, two persons born together at the Cape of Good Hope, whence a voyage round the world may be performed in a year. If one performs this constantly toward the west, in 51 years he will be 50 days behind the stationary inhabitants; and if the other sail equally toward the east, he will be 50 days in advance of them. One, therefore, will have seen 100 days more than the other.—Glasgow Herald.

ALIAS SUMMONS.

In the district court of Weber county, state of Utah—Gomer A. Nicholas, plaintiff, vs. John W. Luckhart, Ada M. Luckhart, his wife, and James Stewart and Sarah A. Stewart, his wife, defendants.

The State of Utah to the said defendants:
You are hereby summoned to appear within twenty days after service of this summons upon you, if served within the county in which this action is brought; otherwise, within thirty days after service, and defend the above entitled action; and in case of your failure so to do, judgment will be rendered against you according to the demand of the complaint, which has been filed with the clerk of said court, together with a copy for you.

This suit is brought to obtain a decree reforming and correcting the description of certain real estate situated in Weber county, Utah, and more particularly described in plaintiff's complaint on file in this court and conveyed by defendants to this plaintiff, and which was erroneously and defectively described in their respective deeds of conveyance, in this, that the starting point was given as 42 1/2 rods west and 2 1/2 rods north from the S. E. corner of the southwest corner of section 34, when it should have been beginning 42 1/2 rods west and 31 rods north from the southeast corner of the southwest quarter of section 34, aforesaid.
